BATTALIONS OF EXPEDITIONARY ARMY GIVEN GREAT WELCOME BY FRENCH INDEPENDENCE DAY.

POILUS PAY TRIBUTE

United State Soldiers Go Into Permanent Training Camps In France After Celebration.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Paris, July 5.—When the 250th regiment of French territorials with its bands escorted the battalions of the expeditionary army into the court of honor as part of Independence Day celebration, the court resounded with the acclamations of the massed spectators, who left just room enough for the troops to form a hollow square.

Ancient Standards.
In the center were descendants of soldiers of the American revolution with standards in United States colors and the colors of a major general of the United States army, flag of red, white and blue, with a silver eagle, surrounded by French women; and American veterans who fought with the French in the war of 1870, with the flag of the American volunteers in French colors. Alongside was a delegation from Luppuy, the city nearest the birthplace of General La Fayette, carrying a flag to be presented to the American troops. General Pershing, accompanied by General John A. Harbord, and other dignitaries was the signal for tremendous cheering.

Due Observance.
Hats were off again and impressive silence prevailed when the standards and flags were presented to the American troops. General Pershing was given a salute by the French. General La Fayette, governor of the invalides, received the flag of the American volunteers for the War Museum.
Thousands of French soldiers, on leave from the front, were among the spectators. Hundreds of people left the sidewalks and rushed forward to shake the hands of the American troops. Hundreds of French troops, in stained uniforms, joined the marching troops, on either side, in columns, and continued for miles. Some wore badges on their heads and others had their arms in slings from recent wounds.

Flowers Thrown.
Children threw flowers in the way of the troops and flowers were tossed from the sidewalks and came fluttering down from the windows. They were caught by the American soldiers, who stuck them in their rifles or in their hats. The crowds removed their head coverings to salute the stars and stripes. Women and girls waved their handkerchiefs, and everywhere sounded the acclamations of the French people to the "Samtains".
French military music commented on the snappy marching gait and the soldierly air of the American soldiers.

Everyone Celebrated.
In the celebration of Independence Day restaurants throughout Paris had dishes suggesting America. On the menu were Chicken a la Williams, Independence Cake, Turbot a la Fayette, American Creamed Soup, and Peaches Rochambeau.
Police officials, familiar with previous demonstrations, said that this was on a greater scale than ever they had seen. They declared that at least a million people must have seen the parade.

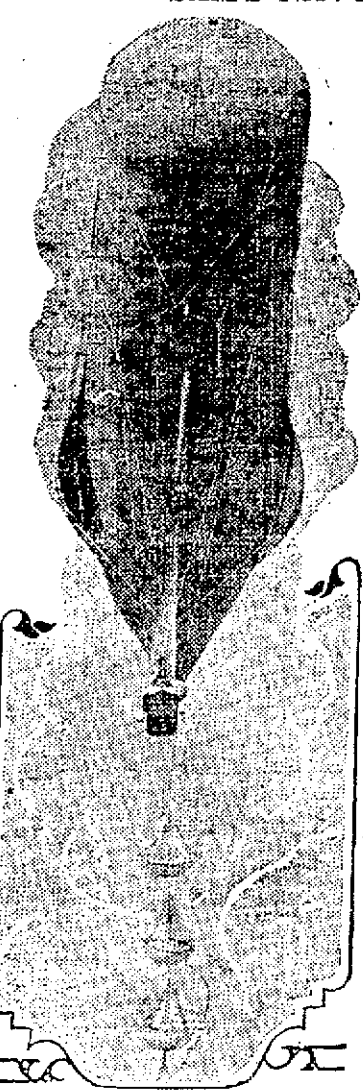

Go Into Camp.
The battalions of American troops which paraded yesterday have gone to the permanent American training camp. The other units of the expeditionary force which are now at a French port will leave shortly for instruction. It is expected the entire expedition will be encamped at the 15th. Major General Sibert will command the camp.
At Seaport.
A French seaport, July 5.—For the first time in its history this little seaport celebrated the American 4th of July. The majority of the inhabitants scarcely knew what they were celebrating, but they had been told it was the American 4th of July, and they did their best to give the town a festive air.

RECRUITING RALLY
IN AFRICA ON 4TH

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Cape Town, July 5.—Independence Day was celebrated by the opening of a recruiting rally, the principal object of which was to attract recruits to the American army. The rally was attended by the American consul general, George H. Murphy, and I. K. Merriman, premier of Cape Colony. Mr. Merriman in an address eulogized the stand America has taken, and said he was indebted to the Anglo-Saxon race were partners in a common cause going forth to uphold ideals which were their common heritage. He hoped that their joint efforts would cement the ties of kindred and inherited traditions.

CRUGER DETECTIVE
WARNED BY ITALIANS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Bologna, Italy, July 5.—Joseph W. Grigg, the New York detective, who came here in connection with the case of Alfred Cocchi, a murderer, has been warned that he will meet the fate of Lieutenant Pershing, who was killed. Lieutenant Pershing was chief of detective bureau of the New York police department in 1909, and in March of that year he was assassinated at Palermo, Italy. The murderers of Pershing were never brought to justice.

MILITARY CRASH IN CHINA IS EMINENT

Tien-Tsin, China, July 5.—A military crash in China is imminent. Troops of Peking are showing opposition to General Chang Hsun's dictatorship under the guise of a monarch. Execution or imprisonment of prominent officials have resulted from the disturbed state of affairs. Among those imprisoned was Wang Shi-Chen, minister of war under the republic. The executions already number nine, among the most prominent being Prince Pu Lun, chairman of the council of state.

SEE END OF STRIKE
AMONG SHIP WORKERS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
New York, July 5.—Negotiations between striking ship building workers and thirty-five ship building companies in and about this port, were under way today in an effort to end the strike. The men demand a minimum daily wage of $4.50, or about fifty cents above the present scale. It was estimated that about 3,000 men out of the 6,000 employed were out on the strike.

SPY ACTIVITIES OF GERMANS STARTLING

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Washington, July 5.—Officials, who for obvious reasons cannot be quoted, declared today that if the government system could be published the news would startle the world.
While not admitting they are convinced that the spy system is entirely responsible for the recent attack on the transports of Pershing's expedition it was said that the combined forces of the war and navy departments were working in cohesion and systematically under the information of an amazing character to the government. It was pointed out that even with the strict censorship of mails and press, the European allies have not been able to meet the situation to their complete satisfaction. The problem is of greater magnitude in this country, with the thousands of alien and with countless means of outside communication.

Saxony's Men Fighting for the Fatherland, Not for Kaiser.—Situation Is Serious.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Copenhagen, July 5.—Saxon soldiers are not fighting out of loyalty to the Kaiser, but for the fatherland. Saxony is suffering badly from mistaken democracy and conditions have reached such a stage that all parties are forced to warn the government on the seriousness of the situation. The Saxon parliament are forced seriously to consider the danger of the danger of this situation. Such were the disagreeable declarations which the government was forced to hear from all parties in a debate yesterday, a report of which reached here yesterday.
The occasion for the debate was a socialist resolution demanding that the government make an effort to secure a liberal reorganization of the empire. After Count Vitthum, premier of Saxony, had declared an inquiry that Saxony would fight any attempt to secure any franchise reform in any individual state through the Reichstag, the socialist vice president of the house flatly denied that the loyalty to the king played any role in the attitude of the people. He warned Count Vitthum toward persisting in his reactionary attitude, saying that reform would come, if not from the crown, then from the mob.

ITALIAN SHIPPING LOSSES ARE SMALL

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Paris, July 5.—The Italian government announces that only one Italian steamer, eight vessels and four ships were sunk during the week ending July 1st, says a Havas dispatch from Rome.
During that period 450 merchant ships cleared from Italian ports and 800 vessels arrived.

LEGISLATURE WILL OVERRUN SCHEDULE

Madison, July 5.—There is little hope of final adjournment of the legislature before July 14th. There are upwards of one hundred bills in both houses. It was originally intended that it might be cleared up by July 15. The senate session was attended by only two senators, two members, including the speaker representing the assembly.

Japan Rushing Plans
For Course After War;
Foresee Early Peace

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Tokio, July 5.—Belief that the European war is nearing a climax and the firm conviction that Japan should carefully examine her own internal situation, are thought to be the chief reasons for the recent creation of a national advisory council which shall be responsible to the emperor. It is an unprecedented step that they have taken.

The new council is officially called the Temporary Diplomatic Commission and it is composed of prominent men both inside and outside the cabinet.
It is believed that an important question of study will be the preparation for the peace conference, and Japan's international position and activities subsequent to the war. Great interest is felt as to whether the council will decide to advise a more energetic part in the war.

BRITISH MAKE MUCH OF CELEBRATION OF
INDEPENDENCE DAY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
London, July 5.—The prominence given Independence Day suggests a recurrence of a British rather than an American anniversary.
The papers devoted the finest editorials thereto, emphasizing especially themselves with the revolution of the Russian council of workmen and soldier deputies in favor of peace without annexation of indemnities, but explain that they interpret these terms as follows:
Annexation exists where a belligerent rules in force against the will of the inhabitants or all or part of the territory of its adversary. A classic example is the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine. Refusal of all annexation does not necessarily imply for us maintenance of the territorial status quo. Modification of a frontier seems legitimate when it confirms to the will of the inhabitants.

Secretary Balfour said:
"We cannot look back on the separation of England and the United States as one of our political successes. All I can say in excuse of my country is that it is the only one of our colonial policy was, it was far ahead of that of any other country."
"I do not grudge the glories of Washington and his soldiers. I have no quarrel with the British defeat which ended in the triumphant establishment of the American republic. My only regret is that memory should carry any trace of the tragedy. Surely there is none on our part."

RUSS COUNCIL BACKS
GOVERNMENT'S RAIDS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Petrograd, July 5.—A vote of confidence in the government was adopted unanimously by the council of soldiers and workmen deputies on the occasion of the raid by government forces on the villa of the former Minister Durovov, which since the revolution had been the headquarters of anarchists. The vote was taken after a speech by the minister of labor, who said no one in Russia could be arrested on account of his political ideas but that no mercy would be shown to criminals who disrupted society under the name of anarchists.

BOYS TAKE TURNS TO BEAT FATHER DEAD

St. Louis, July 5.—William Denner, 58 years old, was beaten to death here today by his two sons, Theodore, 13 years old, and Herman, 12 years old. The boys took turns in hammering their father with baseball bat. Herman told the police that he killed his father because of his long continued cruelty. The father had been beating his mother out of the house. Herman tried to defend his stepmother, he said, and the father threw a tea kettle at him. The fight then began.

GERMAN, AGENT TO CHINA, ENDS LIFE

New York, July 5.—Richard Triner, representative of German commercial interests in China, committed suicide here today by jumping from the tenth floor of his bachelor apartment. He had first slashed his wrists with a razor. Triner, who was said at one time to be an agent for the German government, took out his papers in 1914. He was apparently a man of wealth. No motive for the suicide has been ascertained by the police.

WHITEWATER MAN
FAINTS AT DEPOT

James Scoville Faints While Waiting For Train—Taken to Police Station to Recover.
James Scoville, an aged resident of Whitewater and Civil war veteran, fainted and fell this morning while standing on the platform at the St. Paul depot.
Mr. Scoville was waiting for the Whitewater train to arrive and suddenly became weak, falling against two men who were standing close by. The two men who had their backs turned toward him believing some person was trying to pass stepped to one side, allowing him to fall to the pavement. He was taken into the waiting room and allowed to rest until a taxi was called and then taken to the police station where he might lie down. Upon arriving at the police station however, his condition had improved so much that he was able to sit up and talk. He expected to return to Whitewater on an afternoon train. Mr. Scoville had been visiting friends in the city over the Fourth.

TORPEDOED BUT NOT SUNK BY FIRE WORKS.

A party of half a dozen couples bound for Crystal Springs for a paper boat evening had all the experiences of a munition ship being torpedoed by one of the Kaiser's submarines. They had seven dollars worth of fireworks in the boat and accidentally they went off. Firecrackers and their bigger brothers, the salutes, went off like cannon; balls from Roman candles ricocheted around the inside of the launch like bits of shrapnel and skyrockets bounced and bounced again in a gleeful game of tag.
The young ladies all but leaped into the river and their companions were ready to follow. One youth grabbed up the burning pile and held them over the water and it was with a reluctance of high excitement that the party saw him hold them there undisturbed whether to throw the exploding mass away or attempt to save some for later celebration. He finally dropped them.
Fortunately, the fireworks hurt although both boys and girls exhibited many burns in their suits and dresses.

BALK AT CONFERENCE

Men from Belgium Refuse to Meet German and Austrian Socialists Unless Former's Terms Are Encouraged.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Stockholm, July 5.—The Holland-Scandinavian socialist committee published a long communication issued by the Belgians said that they do not believe an enduring peace possible with the Hohenzollern dynasty retaining its present power. They would not refuse to meet representatives of the Austrian and majority German socialists, they say, if they renounce their present errors in a manly way against their emperors.

The communication says further that the basis for deliberation of such a conference would be entirely imperialism. The Belgians associate themselves with the revolution of the Russian council of workmen and soldier deputies in favor of peace without annexation of indemnities, but explain that they interpret these terms as follows:
Annexation exists where a belligerent rules in force against the will of the inhabitants or all or part of the territory of its adversary. A classic example is the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine. Refusal of all annexation does not necessarily imply for us maintenance of the territorial status quo. Modification of a frontier seems legitimate when it confirms to the will of the inhabitants.

Indemnity we understand to mean compensation similar to that which Belgium exacted from France in 1871, or that which the Germans are considering imposing upon occupied Belgium.
The right of the people to dispose of themselves implies that the people shall have no master either at home or abroad.

LAW LIMITS PROFIT TO BOOK DEALERS

Madison, Wis., July 5.—Gov. Philipp has signed the bill aimed at the high text book prices in Wisconsin. The measure is practically a copy of the Illinois law on the subject.
"It shall be unlawful for any retailer in text books to sell any books listed with the state superintendent of public instruction as provided by law at a price to exceed 15 percent advance on the next price as so listed, transportation added thereto," declares the law, which is already in effect. "Any dealer violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than $25 and not more than $100."

The law specifically declares that it shall not operate to prevent any school district furnishing free text books to pupils. The bill contains an answer provision which says that books adopted by the schools "shall not be changed for five years."
Approval has been given to the Wilkinson bill for the distribution of income taxes, when they exceed a certain rate in relation to the assessed value of the town. The bill in reality was introduced to relieve the town of Barkdale, where the Du Pont powder plant was located. The revenues to that town from the income tax are far greater than the town can use. The law still provides that 70 percent of the income taxes collected shall go to that town, except that with such amount exceeds 10 percent of the equalized value of the town, city or village, such excess shall be paid to the county to be distributed and apportioned to the several towns, cities and villages of the county, according to the school population therein.

It is the belief of some of the members from northern Wisconsin that many of the schools in the county where the powder plant is located will receive a great help as the result of the passage of this law. The tax being distributed on the basis of school population it is thought the town will use the money for the schools.

GERMANS DESTROY COUCY CASTLE,
GREATEST RELIC OF THE AGES

Coucy Castle before and after its destruction.

The destruction by the Germans of the Castle of Coucy, "the most perfect example of the medieval fortress," is declared to be the greatest act of vandalism that the Germans have yet committed. The famous old relic, which had been respected by warriors since its erection more than five centuries ago, was not razed because of military necessity, but simply to satisfy the German war lords who are determined to destroy everything possible in France that has either beauty or utility.

WAS A U-BOAT SUNK
BY ENGLISH BOAT?

An Atlantic Port, July 5.—Confident that their gunners had another victim to the list of German submarines sunk, was expressed by the officers of a British liner which reached this port today. Attacked on the morning of June 28th, a U-boat which suddenly appeared about 600 yards off, the liner's course was promptly changed. Almost at the same distance, the gun was fired. A column of black smoke spurted in the air and the U-boat went down.

NO DOG TAG; FINED;
POLICE CRUSADE ON

Thomas Butters First To Be Caught In Campaign to License Every Dog in City This Year.
The crusade against canine owners, five weeks delinquent in securing city licenses, is on. The police say it will be continued relentlessly until every dog in the city is licensed.

Thomas Butters, Sr., 1322 Oakland avenue, is the first man to pay a penalty in the campaign to tag the dogs. He paid a fine of five dollars and court costs of $2.40 in Municipal Court this morning after pleading guilty to the charge of having a dog which did not have a license.
Butters said the dog belonged to his boys and that it was not his but City Attorney Charles H. Lange showed him the city ordinance which constrains that any person harboring a canine is declared its owner and can be held for failure to secure a permit. The fact that the dog stayed at Butters' house and that it was the property of one of his sons did not exempt him.

EXPECT NO FURTHER DAMAGE FROM RIVER AS WATERS RECEDE

Flood Abates Above Lake Koshkonong And Immediately Drops in Level Here is Looked For.

Unless unusual rains fall within the next two days there is little danger of the flood waters of the Rock river causing any more damage than they have in the places about Lake Koshkonong, where acres of land are inundated. This statement was issued by P. H. Korst, head of the Janesville Electric company following investigations of conditions almost to the headwaters of the Rock river and its larger tributaries.

The river has not risen any in this city for three days, and an immediate drop is expected. Already the water has fallen six inches, though the tremendous amount of water stored in Lake Koshkonong retards the drop in the level below that point.

Indian Ford dam is still under armed guard; a precaution taken following the persistent rumor that pirate farmers of the vicinity whose lands have been flooded, threatened to blow up the Indian Ford dam to release the waters. Officials of the Electric company traced up these rumors as far as possible, but were unable to learn of any definite plans. It is said that a meeting of the farmers was held at Buesseville last Monday, at which the question was alleged to have been debated, but no developments followed.

In addition to the regular force employed at the power house, other guards have been put on and a powerful searchlight sweeping the dam and its approaches has been installed to aid the guards at night. Officials of the company feel that with these precautions there is little danger to be expected from this source, especially as the water is beginning to fall.

Most of the damage of which there has been no estimate, but which has occurred largely among the crops, has been done in the neighborhood of the lake, at those sections where the shore is but a foot or so above normal lake level. The water in Lake Koshkonong itself is four feet above the average, and has not frequently reached its present high level.

For a mile or more back of the Indian Ford dam the banks of the river are so high that there has been no flood damage. Just above the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad bridge the banks lower again and there has been some damage at that point.

Normal levels are reported on the Yahara river and the four lakes near Madison, drained by that tributary, and with the very appreciable drop above the lake and throughout the country above Jefferson and Fort Atkinson, a gradual return to normal levels is expected here within the course of a few days, unless heavy rains set in.

The water here has been higher than it was at the flood point early in April, immediately after the ice went out and the rise at Koshkonong establishes a record for any season of the year.

MADE DISBURSING OFFICER AT FORT

Captain A. P. Burnham Assigned to Important Place in Quartermaster Corps.

Captain A. P. Burnham, who has been on duty in the quartermaster's department at Fort Sheridan, was July 1st of this year made disbursing officer for the fort. He will handle between six and seven hundred thousand dollars a month, including all receipts from sales and the issue of rations and equipment as well as handle the pay rolls of the various companies now in training there. The office is a most important one and Captain Burnham will handle all funds by his own check on the sub-treasury. Captain Burnham spent the Fourth in Janesville, returning for duty this morning. During the period of the war all officers on active duty must wear the khaki at all times, is one of the latest orders issued by the war department.

LARGE CROWD ENJOYS DAY AT GOLF CLUB

Bridge, Golf and Dancing Feature Fourth Celebration.—Mrs. Mead Gives Pleading Entertainment.

Well over a hundred people, including a number of guests from nearby cities, gathered at the Janesville Country club yesterday for the Fourth of July activities which had been arranged for the day. Beginning with golf in the morning and culminating in the dancing in the evening, there was something for everyone to do all the time.

The Red Cross tournament, played in all the clubs of the country yesterday for the benefit of that organization, netted twenty dollars here from the entry fees. The prize medal, presented by the Red Cross, was won by Warren V. Wheelock.

Most of the ladies played bridge in the afternoon. Mrs. A. P. Burnham winning the prize. Both luncheon and supper were served by Mrs. P. H. Korst, and a crowd of nearly one hundred and twenty-five at supper surpassed anything seen at the club this season.

Immediately following supper Mrs. Catherine Pannill Mead of Milwaukee gave a most charming program of negro studies and songs, excerpts from her evening's entertainment, "Plantation Days in Song and Story." Mrs. Mead evidently knew the old fashioned negro and all his quaint phases and her few numbers pleased him to a clear, bumptious way that won the applause of her audience. As an encore she responded with two of her own compositions, "De Sandman" and "A Little Dutch Garden." Mrs. Mead is a master of the negro dialect and sings in a delicate soprano voice, admirably adapted to the songs on her program.

Day has been scheduled as ladies' day at the club. Golf and bridge will be played and a luncheon served at noon. Reservations should be made at once.

CANTILLONS INHERIT ESTATE FROM MINER

To Receive Large Sum Willied Them By Wealthy Gold Pioneer.

According to a dispatch received here this morning, Michael E. Cantillon, president of the Minneapolis club of the American association, has gone to Sacramento, Cal., to become executor of the estate of Patrick Dowling, western gold pioneer, who died there recently. The estate, said to be worth $1,000,000 in cash, is to be divided among Mr. Cantillon, his brother Joseph, Eagle Grove, Minn., and one sister, 20, who is married. The two Minneapolis baseball men would receive nearly $750,000 each. Mr. Dowling, who was eighty-three years old, was a first cousin of the late Patrick Cantillon, father of the heirs. He was unmarried and left no relatives closer than the Cantillon family.

The Cantillons were formerly Janesville people and were very well known throughout the city.

STREET CARS AND VEHICLES MUST STOP FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Governor Philipp has signed the bill which requires street cars and all vehicles to stop when the fire department approaches and remain stationary until the apparatus has passed.

Local officials announced that the law will be strictly enforced. He said a copy of the law to the Janesville Street Railways company and also requests that drivers of vehicles, motor or otherwise, take full cognizance of the new statute which follows:

"The motorman of any street car shall immediately stop his car upon the approach of any fire apparatus when responding to a fire alarm call and shall keep the car stationary until such time as such apparatus is passed; and the driver of any vehicle, motor or otherwise, shall immediately drive his vehicle as near as possible to the highland curb and keep said vehicle stationary until such fire apparatus has passed."

CELEBRATION DRAWS MANY TO EVANSVILLE

Evansville, July 5.—Evansville is recovering from one of the biggest celebrations ever held here.

It was a grand success from start to finish. The day was ideal, the weather, everything that could be desired. The crowd began coming early by train, wagon and automobile, and having come remained for a gala day. It is estimated between three and five thousand people were in attendance. The festivities began with the big morning parade which more than pleased the big crowd. The committees in charge may be congratulated upon the success of the parade.

HEAVY COURSE STOPS
VERTON IN SPURT TO BREAK TRACK RECORD

Attempt to Lower Time Made By Joe Patchen Fails—Excellent Mattinee Poorly Attended.

A slow track made by the continued rains saved Joe Patchen's record of 2:14.4 for the Janesville Driving Park association track yesterday, when Prince Verton of the Weeks stables of Chicago attempted to lower the time. The course was chippy and leaned toward heaviness.

The best time the Prince was able to make was 2:07.4, which is one-half a second under his trial of a heat several weeks ago. Ed Harris was behind the horse and pushed it hard, but was unable to equal the Patchen time because of track conditions.

Considering the type of the matinee there was a small crowd which witnessed the affair. Every race was good and each well worth seeing.

This morning it was stated that a sum between $75 and $100 was secured for the local militia company's fund.

John L. Fisher, who has officiated as starter at Janesville fair races, acted in the same capacity yesterday.

The judges were John Souther of this city and James Conway of Edgerton, the latter being clerk of the course at the big fair races last fall.

George Paris held the watch and Frank L. Smith was clerk of the course.

Although Helen Holliday hit 2:19.4 in the first heat of the 2:22 trot, Lucy Boyer took the next two heats in 2:21.4 each, and topped Sunrise finished third in the three heats.

Direct Patch with two starlight heats in the second race, defeated Lieutenant Ambury and Jaunt Fast. The best time was made in the second heat, 2:20.4.

Billy Law lost the first heat of the 2:20 pace to Little Rapids, but came back strong in the remaining pair and finished first each time, while the Rapids horse was forced back to fourth.

Little Rapids made the best time of the race, 2:12.4. Billy Law took the next two in 2:13.4 and 2:14.4.

Win Dillon "winned" the 2:20 pace in 2:13.4 and 2:12.4. Andrew P. and Marie D. split second money. Manilla Birchwood was third.

The most recent offer came from Colorado, where they were so vulgar as to offer the two champions a $2,000 purse for a twenty-round tilt. Managers for both men were shocked and then replied there was nothing doing.

"We can do better in the east," was the unanimous answer they sent to the Coloradoans.

Meanwhile the fight fans are waiting. They know the best match in years is possible. They are beginning to feel it never will be offered them.

Undaunted, Paul started his work all over again. This time it took nearly a year to patch up his charge, and just as he had him ready for a race, he was broken down again. This third mishap tended to discourage Mrs. Fox, but not Paul. He threw the gelding out of training and let him stay out for nearly a year.

Nearly last month Royalty again had lost his lameness and Paul put him in training. He improved with each trial and showed enough to believe he could win a race. Then his opportunity came. "Barring another breakdown he'll win," Paul advised his friends, and he came through for victory.

With the governmental request that as many men as possible be held in the professional schools, there is a movement at several colleges to allow these men to play on college teams along with freshmen. Under the present code only undergraduates and certain freshmen are eligible to intercollegiate competition.

Manager Connie Mack of the champion Athletics has posted a notice in the clubhouse informing his team that it will cost any player $5 who is late or absent from the 10 o'clock morning practice for the first time and if the offense is repeated. The fines will be given to the Northwestern hospital, Philadelphia where there is a bed for disabled baseball players.

Walter Maraville quickly denied the report that he had enlisted in the navy, but somebody, perhaps it's Hank Gowdy, seems determined to have the Braves' shortstop on the firing line.

When football is resumed, as will perhaps be the case next fall, some of the opponents will be put to it to find opponents qualified to match the maize and blue in drawing power. Pennsylvania, for example has found the Michigan contest a significant financial interest which will not easily be duplicated.

So with Cornell and Syracuse, which have had Michigan on their calendars with some frequency in the past years. It is of course, not all together assured that the Ann Arbor authorities will be contented with confining their team to intercollegiate games and not the other hand there is the feeling that Michigan did not derive from the intercollegiate games a sufficient amount of prestige to repay the effort involved. Still, it is just possible that the intercollegiate idea will be found not to have disappeared completely.

Pickler Pipp, he is called—and he is! The tall son of Michigan is the new home run king of the American league, supplanting his teammate, Home Run Baker. Last year the big Hanker first with the outburst of circuit clouts and fourteen triples, and nearly ran the opposing fielders ragged trying to gather in his long wallop. Few men in baseball swing as heavily as Pipp. They are not their backs against the fence when he bats.

The lanky left-hander is hitting "am out" again, the popular player on the New York team. Only during the recent series with St. Louis the Pickler won two successive games outright in the first inning by driving the ball into the stands with the same two men on bases each day. Up to the date of writing he has poled four triples, fourteen doubles and five home runs.

When President Frazee of the Red Sox got word from Ban Johnson that Charley Wagner and Ernie Shore stood suspended for their outburst in the first game of the Red Sox series, he immediately got on the telephone and told President Johnson that Buck Weaver had acted worse than the Red Sox players.

Johnson's reply to the umpires had failed to inform him of it and he could not act until he heard from them in confirmation. Weaver got himself disliked in Boston, where he is protected himself from a gang of hoodlums and gamblers.

The war is responsible for Connie Mack getting another college ball player. Pat French, the University of Maine athlete, who will try out with the Athletics, never played ball until this spring, devoting all his energies to other branches of athletics but the baseball team of the college was short of men because several players had gone into the army, so French turned out to make the team. He was a winner from the start, hitting hard and fielding like a veteran. He is a ten-second man, a champion broad jumper and holds good marks in other track events.

Of the Braves who won the world's championship in 1914, Stalling still retains Brown, Maraville, Smith and Rudy and Tyler.

MORRIS MILLER

The Washington club has had no sure enough scout since Mike Kaase was let out, so week or two ago Clark Griffith left the team in charge of George McBride and went gumshoeing. The results are not stated, but this much is sure. Griffith has to get some ball players from somewhere.

Next day Fox went to work on him, playing veterinary as well as trainer. In a couple of months his patience and work were rewarded, for Royalty's limp was missing and he showed flashes of great speed in his trials. As a result the veteran trainer pointed him for a race, but on the day preceding the contest the old gelding again broke down.

Undaunted, Paul started his work all over again. This time it took nearly a year to patch up his charge, and just as he had him ready for a race, he was broken down again. It is of course, not all together assured that the Ann Arbor authorities will be contented with confining their team to intercollegiate games and not the other hand there is the feeling that Michigan did not derive from the intercollegiate games a sufficient amount of prestige to repay the effort involved. Still, it is just possible that the intercollegiate idea will be found not to have disappeared completely.

Pickler Pipp, he is called—and he is! The tall son of Michigan is the new home run king of the American league, supplanting his teammate, Home Run Baker. Last year the big Hanker first with the outburst of circuit clouts and fourteen triples, and nearly ran the opposing fielders ragged trying to gather in his long wallop. Few men in baseball swing as heavily as Pipp. They are not their backs against the fence when he bats.

The lanky left-hander is hitting "am out" again, the popular player on the New York team. Only during the recent series with St. Louis the Pickler won two successive games outright in the first inning by driving the ball into the stands with the same two men on bases each day. Up to the date of writing he has poled four triples, fourteen doubles and five home runs.

When President Frazee of the Red Sox got word from Ban Johnson that Charley Wagner and Ernie Shore stood suspended for their outburst in the first game of the Red Sox series, he immediately got on the telephone and told President Johnson that Buck Weaver had acted worse than the Red Sox players.

Johnson's reply to the umpires had failed to inform him of it and he could not act until he heard from them in confirmation. Weaver got himself disliked in Boston, where he is protected himself from a gang of hoodlums and gamblers.

The war is responsible for Connie Mack getting another college ball player. Pat French, the University of Maine athlete, who will try out with the Athletics, never played ball until this spring, devoting all his energies to other branches of athletics but the baseball team of the college was short of men because several players had gone into the army, so French turned out to make the team. He was a winner from the start, hitting hard and fielding like a veteran. He is a ten-second man, a champion broad jumper and holds good marks in other track events.

Of the Braves who won the world's championship in 1914, Stalling still retains Brown, Maraville, Smith and Rudy and Tyler.

STATE WILL PRODUCE
ITS 3,500,000 LBS.
QUOTA OF POULTRY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., July 5.—Wisconsin will easily produce its expected quota of three and a half million extra pounds of poultry meat in 1917.

In addition to his feat of emergency defense work, the state's flocks have been pledged by their managers to produce one extra dozen of eggs for every man, woman and child in Wisconsin next year.

Better breeding, the use of trap nests, better care of young poultry of all kinds, and the feeding of sensible rations will be responsible for these remarkable gains in Wisconsin's feathered army, authorities say.

Another vital reason for Wisconsin's splendid response to the call for poultry recruits is caused by the general interest in chickens, ducks and geese manifested by town dwellers as well as by farmers.

"There are more back yard chicken plants doing a successful business this year than ever before in the state's history," declares J. G. Halpin, head of the poultry department, University of Wisconsin. Asked why he considered a fair ratio between the volume of poultry products raised on regulation farms on the one hand and town lots on the other, he estimated that two to one would be about right.

"To men unfamiliar with the spread of city poultry raising in the state of late such a sweeping comparison seems wide of the truth," he said. "Verified by other poultrymen, however, the fact stands, taken the year round, that not more than twice as many poultry products come from farms than from town plants."

"Quality is doing her work," announced a certain Milwaukee produce dealer, at the initial session of the new Wisconsin Poultry and Poultry Dealers association held here recently.

He stated that cleaner and better eggs and larger, better conditioned fowls are being received from Wisconsin points than any other time since he has been in business. Educational work and organization among poultrymen is one of the factors which has made such rapid progress, this dealer believes.

"Wisconsin has made quick forward steps in poultry raising in all lines, but especially in the goose industry," he stated. "Eastern shippers tell me that Wisconsin's fat goose market is the best and most reliable one in the country. Remarkable prices are received for Jefferson county geese, too. One man brought in a single wagonload of geese last fall and sold it to Watertown dealers for $940."

Poultrymen of Wisconsin, including the 160 life members of the American Poultry association, resident in the state, are lending support to the work of the National Bureau of Poultry Information, conducted at Chicago under the direction of A. A. and allied clubs. Harlo J. Fiske of Oconomowoc is a member of the committee which is seeking state aid for pushing the poultry industry.

In charge of local leaders at Green Lake, Princeton, Markesan, Berlin, Chippewa Falls, Holcomb, Cornell, Frederic, Loyal, Marshfield, Plymouth, Spooner, Waterloo, Kenosha, Marshall, Oshkosh, Omro, Hartland and Oconomowoc, Wisconsin committee units are active as well, all helping to "boost the product of the rooster."

Variety clubs are well represented in the state, nearly all of the chief classes of utility fowls being included. The varieties having the largest official standing in Wisconsin, however, are the Single Comb White Leghorns, the Barred Plymouth Rocks, the White Wyandottes, the Rhode Island Reds, and the White Plymouth Rocks.

Other variety clubs have active memberships. Local poultry associations, many of which hold yearly fairs and shows, are numerous in the state, and are all doing excellent service at this time. Their members believe that a skillful combination of show ring stock and utility helps the industry and the members are taken from every walk of life, from the banker to the newsboy.

Junior poultry clubs, of which fully thirty are now in the limelight of action, having a total membership of about 700 boys from 10 to 18 years old, who own about 600 pure bred fowls, help to make Wisconsin's part in the campaign more effective.

Lists of the leading senior and junior poultry associations in the state have been compiled as follows:

Professional Clubs. Wisconsin Poultry association, Madison; Watertown association; Janesville association; Racine association; Dodgeville association; De Pere association; Western Wisconsin association; La Crosse; Waukesha association; Oconomowoc association; Sussex Co-operative association; Sussex; Mineral Point association; Sheboygan association; Wisconsin Poultry and Pet Stock association; Sparta; Waupaca association; Port Atkinson association; Douglas County association; Superior; Chippewa association; Chippewa Falls; Fond du Lac association; Green Bay association; Oshkosh association; Fox River Valley association; Beloit association; Beloit association; Rock River Valley association; Jefferson; Wisconsin Feathered Stock association; Manitowish; Mukwonago association; Wausau association; Watertown association.

THE GOLDEN EGG.
You all remember the story of the goose that lay the golden egg do you not? Well, it has its application at the present time. This nation has become prosperous through the war, and the people are doing a good business in helping the people save their profits. Down at Washington are a few men, one from each congressional district, two from each state in the union, who enact the laws for this nation, for us as individuals. At the present time the southern members are in control, that is men who, from the south, are not fully understanding the needs and necessities of the north. They are called in many ideas narrow in the conception of enforcement of law and what would suit the southern states would be absolute suicide for the northern communities that furnish the money and the sinews of this great nation. The golden eggs that have been laid in the field of American industry have been laid by the northern states, and yet by legislation and regulation these southern members of our law making organizations, aided by a few northern misadvised brethren, would kill that goose by adverse legislation and unwieldy laws. The administration is composed of the most part of men of southern birth and education, whose point of view is with the south and in consequence the nation may be led to a large extent down or curtailed output just at a time when every wheel of industry should be turning. The war measures have been held up, the naval and war departments seriously hampered by such dilatory tactics and the goose is becoming nervous on its nest as to what will be the outcome. What we need is a change in Washington. Conceded down in Washington is sectional differences of temperament. What would be good for the south may not be good for the northern state. What would be of great benefit for the north would be ruin for the south. So we have it. Meanwhile gentlemen, let that goose continue to lay its golden eggs and do not be like the members of that family that the peasant girl afterwards called a king. "Every egg laid by this goose will be golden, and what called to account for the fact the goose in question laid no eggs replied "Why should he, he is a gander!"

A BAD EXAMPLE.
Not since the days of Kitchinoff and the slaughter of the unfortunate Jews by their oppressors, nor since the period when the tale of the Congo was first told or even the slaughter of the unfortunate Armenians by their Turkish rulers, has this nation been so stirred as it is at present by the reports that come to us from East St. Louis where innocent black men have been shot down, their homes burned, and they themselves driven out to seek shelter where they might. Germany's invasion of Belgium and the violation of all rights of war by its soldiers, tells no more story of brutal disregard of the law than the unfortunate film has as its chief executive a man of moral courage enough to stand up for what is right and order in the face of the law and punish the violators. Meanwhile the unfortunate negro, brought to the north by promise of a vote and freedom has had no joy in his southern home, is driven by an honest man, his home broken up, his employment gone, perhaps his parents and nearest left behind to fill a grave in a strange and hostile land. It is a bad example to set the world just at this time when our soldiers have crossed the water to fight for human liberty. No punishment is too severe for those who are responsible for the cause of an inception of this terrible riot that is a blot on the fair name of Illinois.

ORGANIZING THE ARMY.
After the initial registration lists are complete, after the names are drawn, after the drafted men are thumped and manled by the doctors the army is raised on paper. But the work has only begun.
There follows a stupendous task, that of supplying and arming the men. There are a million hungry and naked fellows to feed, to clothe, to arm, to equip for heat, cold and wet. They must have arms at least equal to the best. They must be protected against disease, typhoid and trench infection. The job of training them in fighting technique is comparatively simple.
The supply proposition is a job comparable to running the United States Steel Corporation or the Pennsylvania railroad and it is a new kind of work at which no one is an amateur. No wonder it drags, while our allies watch and wait impatiently for our reinforcements.
To perform this amazing task all political feeling must pass. We must stop being Republicans and Democrats and Socialists and be simply Americans. Technical experts must give service free. Politicians must become a pure business corporation. In so far as we can maintain these high standards we shall prove a winner in the field.

THE SURVEY.
The report of the survey of the public schools has been made public. It brings forth most glaring facts relative to the various schools that have long been known but which in cold print look less acceptable than ever. The survey has been delayed and now remains to see how the matter of reorganization of the antiquated system of teaching and school buildings are to be handled. That the board of education are alive to the situation is most certain but it is up to the city now to make the first real move upon recommendation of the board. Doubtless there will be a further delay until the printed report of the survey is received and can be studied out in detail. Meantime we must prepare for the expenditure of considerable money to meet present needs.

THE RED CROSS AS AN INVESTMENT.
The big drive for Red Cross funds has been promoted largely on the basis of humanitarian motives. It has been entitled on these considerations to every dollar it can raise and far more. But that does not cover the whole story. The proper care of our wounded and sick is a business investment for the country. The human losses of war are done by the lack of adequate medical facilities. The fatalities of the Civil War and the Spanish War were enormously increased by disease and lack of modern treatment of wounds. It was in the Russo-Japanese war that the armies first began to gain a new reinforcement by correct treatment of their wounded.
The fighting powers of Europe look at their wounded and sick men with a vision of humanitarianism. They recognize in these disabled men a potential fighting force of great strength. The vast majority of them are saved through good medicine and surgery.
A big proportion find their way back to the trenches as good as ever. Even though all this is fully realized, yet the exigencies of war leave many gaps to be filled. More nurses, more doctors, more supplies, more hospitals, are always needed. Thousands are constantly dying who with better attention could be saved.
The families who are sending their own boys to the trenches keenly realize this. There will be no stint of Red Cross contributions from these circles. The business world should also see it. If we lose twice as many men from wounds as need be, the productive force of our country is needlessly crippled for our generation. The Red Cross is a business proposition, and it is a military proposition as well as one of humanitarian sentiment.

THE DANGER OF READING.
Higbee Tubbs, the king of Wall Street, thoughtfully laid down the copy of "Daily Vast" by his friend, Professor Squint Nose.
"By jinks, he's right!" he exclaimed. And he pounded his fist down on his desk so hard that his stenographer's shorthand book leaped up and landed on the nose of a N-hoof.
"I'll set 'em an example in economy!" I know I've got an appointment with the manure, but let her go hang! I'll begin right now by manuring my own nose."
And he sent out for a twenty dollar manure pail and got to work immediately, giving orders that he was not to be disturbed until he finished. He was out of the nose with a N-hoof hand when Bludde Snow, of Snow, Wow and Dow, called in a hurry to put through a big deal in September peanuts. He was on his right thumb when he heard of Tubbs' N-hoof. He tried unsuccessfully to have him informed of the impending big rise in green sugar, and he had embarked on his left hand when Lew Titters, of Titters and Gigles, called with three millionaires munition makers who refused to wait. All in all, when he attached a piece of court plaster on the left out at eight o'clock and left the dark office, he was out just $4,200.
"Hello!" called Miss Persyfooge, the affixest little manicurist in the financial district, as she picked up the copy of "Daily Vast" from the floor. "I guess I can go out with you. Your father had an appointment to have his hands done, but it doesn't look as if he's coming, so trot your car round." Higbee Tubbs had to pay fines for speeding amounting to $474, after which he called up Professor Squint Nose on the telephone and insulted him for twenty minutes.

Wisconsin, To Lower Auto Accidents, Issues Word of Caution To Motorists

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., July 6.—In an attempt to check the increasing number of automobile accidents in the state, the session of the legislature, just closing, adopted a resolution, "Word of Caution to Motorists," a copy of which must be sent by the secretary of state to every person who receives an auto license. The resolution was offered early in the session by Assemblyman Carl Hanson of Manitowish. It points out that the reduction of automobile accidents during the past year has been due to the warning signs. Secretary of State Meritt Hull said today that immediate action would be made to carry out the "safety first" campaign directed by the legislature.
The important sections of the resolution to be passed out by the secretary of state declare:
"The latest government statistics show the number of persons killed and injured in the United States at grade crossings as follows: Approximately 1,147 persons killed, 2,985 injured.
"During 1916, approximately 997 persons killed, 2,398 injured.
"The reduction in casualties during 1916 as compared with the previous year, is due to warning notices posted by railroad companies and automobile clubs, who are endeavoring to provide effective means for making the hazard as much as possible.
"Let your slogan be: Stop. Look. Listen.
"Observations have been made to record the care shown by automobile drivers, and in 35,000 instances the following results were noted: 53 percent looked neither way before passing over a grade crossing; 8 percent looked one way only; 3 percent looked both ways; (about half of one percent) actually stopped their machines before proceeding to pass over the crossing. These figures show that few drivers display the necessary caution to save their lives, limbs and property by simply waiting a moment or two to allow the train to pass.
"Trains have no choice of routes; they must run on the rails, and their patrons require that they must be on time, if possible. Motor car drivers can choose their own routes, and the occupants of machines usually are not prepared for the sudden sight of a grade crossing.
"To prevent thefts of machines by auto bandits, the legislature enacted a law imposing a fine up to $200, or six months imprisonment, or both, for defacing the motor number on any motor car driver's license, upon an auto or motorcycle.
"The garage owner is given right of lien for his work under a new law. The law provides that when the garage owner does the work upon any machine, accessory or part of an automobile, he may retain possession of such part until the bill is paid, and presumably that ties up the machine also. If the bill remains unpaid six months, the garage man may sell the part, retain enough to settle the bill, and turn the remainder over to the county clerk to be held in trust for the debtor. This remedy will be notified before the sale is made.
"To aid the building of trunk highway systems, the auto license fee has been increased for next year.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON
FRIDAY.
Though not at all a slave to superstition, Nor fearing what on Friday may befall, Though trusting, with dispatch and expedition, All kindred fears and foolishness aside, Though ever numbers never made us nervous, And though to us an omen is a joke, Though glad to take the worst that Fate may serve us, Ye, why must Friday always find us broke?
Yea, though the day is clear and bright, and breezy, When crown the cock to stir us from our bed, We rise to feel unhappy and uneasy. We seem to feel a vague, ungodly dread, And when our mind is clear and more sagacious, We see the reason and we sadly choke, And in a cultured way we cry, "Oh, Gracious! It's Friday and I know that I am broke!"
Oh, day of want, oh, day preceding pay-day! Oh, day whereon we wait for pence, or pelf, How oft we hear on three, 'thou drear and gray day, "Old man, I'm sorry, but I'm shy myself!"
Years later, when we're eighty-six or seven, Some Friday we may buy a quarter smoke, And then we'll know we've died and gone to heaven, For 't's Friday and we are not broke!

By far the biggest part of the hearing we do is done with our ears. We hear at eye the thrush with our ears and at the eye the man with a N-hoof. There is the other sort of hearing that we do quite a bit and could do just as well without ears. I hear the Phonos haven't spoken to each other for weeks. Lots of hearing of this sort is done. The way people like to hear. We hear this and we hear that. The amount of real hearing that was done in the past week would fill a N-hoof. Phonos' reputation in fairly good order.

Nuxated Iron Makes Strong, Vigorous, Iron Men and Beautiful Healthy Rosy Cheeked Women

Dr. Howard James, late of the Manhattan State Hospital of New York and formerly Assistant Physician Brooklyn State Hospital, says:
"Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. A patient of mine remarked to me (after having been on a six weeks' course of Nuxated Iron, says, Doctor, that there stuff is like magic."
"If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take five grain tablets of nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. From my own experience with Nuxated Iron, I feel it is such a valuable remedy that it should be kept in every hospital and prescribed by every physician in this country."
Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. James, is for sale by Smith Drug Co., and all good druggists on an absolute guarantee of success and satisfaction or your money refunded.

CELEBRATION HERE YESTERDAY WAS THE QUIETEST IN YEARS

Many Janesville People Leave City for Demonstrations in Nearby Towns.—No Accidents.
Wednesday was the quietest Fourth in years in this city. This opinion was heard everywhere today in discussing activities of the day. None of the usual casualties marked the day, and with no official celebration there were relatively few people on the streets. Beloit and Clinton's exultant celebration, extending from early in the morning until late at night, attracted great crowds of Janesville people, and the auto roads and interurbans were jammed through most of the day.
One interesting touch of patriotism was the playing of the national anthem and other patriotic airs on the chimneys of the First Congregational church. At about half past ten the selections started and continued for half an hour or more. Andrew Ewing, son of the Reverend Charles Ewing, played the choruses in Evansville and Milton also attracted large numbers of Janesville people, and dotted along all the roads in the vicinity of the city were picnic parties, bent on spending the Fourth in the open. The nearby lakes and resorts also drew their quota of holiday guests from the city.
The noise of the celebrators was but small, compared to past years, when the smaller celebrations that occurred here and there, ran the general feeling that Independence Day this year meant more than the mere shooting of fire crackers or the exchange of long sighs over a beautiful yet costly pyrotechnic display.
Police and fire departments were prepared for emergency calls throughout the day, but there was nothing out of the ordinary to bring them out. Fire crackers were small and not very much in evidence, and there were no outbursts of vandalism in blowing up neighbors' ash cans or sidewalks.
The presence of many soldiers from out of town, together with the members of the local militia company, served to emphasize the war-time feeling of the day, while the fluttering of a myriad of flags from nearly every house and vehicle bore silent evidence of the people's patriotic feeling.
The horse races at the Fair Grounds brought out a large crowd of people, and many others went up the river for their day's celebration. On the whole, the day was one of family reunions and trips to neighboring cities, in the absence of any civic celebration in Janesville.
Many special bargains each day in the want columns. Read them.

Hot Weather Hints.

When winter breezes fall breeze and chill the system very much, when frost and cold are here to freeze the toes, the ears and nose and such, oh, then the indoors we seek and fasten our coats so close. But when in summer we despair and sweaterneath the Orb of day, and when it's torrid everywhere, where then is any comfort, pray, when it's really hot, there is no balm in Gilead. We sit perhaps in shade at ease, some leafy dell or sheltered spot, yet all the while our thoughts are "Gee, it's hot!" or "Gosh, it's hot!" and though we sip at cooling drinks we're scarcely comfortable, we think. The present scheme has many flaws, of winter clothes we wear the most, but summer is a trial because though we may simply bask and roast, we cannot wear of clothes the least—the world alas is well fixed. If you're right smart, inventive lad would find a way to fix this thing then what a benison bedded, upon the well known race he'd bring. And to the man's most, after before we'd sneer, "Bring on the worst you've got!"
One Smile.
She smiled one sweet and lovely smile, As she was passing down the aisle, And all who saw were moved to stare.
At one so heavenly and fair, And let us every face there grew A smile sublime, infectious too, And when they went upon their ways Their others saw them in amaze. And those who scowled soon smiled instead.
Till soon her lovely smile had spread Not merely o'er her own fair face, But near and far and every place! And if more pretty girls but knew how it will spread a many mile, They'd smile and smile and smile and smile!

PRESIDENT THANKS SCOUTS FOR LIBERTY BOND SALES

President Wilson has formally extended his thanks to every Boy Scout in the country who aided in selling Liberty Bonds in the recent campaign to raise two billion dollars for the government. In a letter received by local Scout officials this morning, the president is quoted as saying: "One of the most gratifying things connected with the successful flotation of the Liberty loan was the highly effective and commendable work of the Boy Scouts, and I hope to convey to them an expression of my hearty appreciation of and thanks for the patriotic service which they one and all rendered. My thanks also go to the Scoutmasters who directed and assisted the boys."
In all the Scouts raised about $16,000,000, representing 125,000 individual subscriptions. To all those who sold ten or more bonds, the president has offered a special service medal. Application for these medals has been

CHAPTER XIV.

The Only Remedy.

She was in the grip of an appalling realization. This moment—this actual present moment—was going to last only until she should speak for the next time—was the critical moment of her life.

"Roddie," she said, "I was slumped down in a big easy chair at the other side of the table, awaiting a restless foot, drumming now and then with his fingers. Some sort of sound was inaudible, he knew. And he sat there waiting for it.

He thought he was ready for anything. But just the way she spoke his name started—almost frightened him, she said it so quietly, so tenderly.

"Roddie," she said, "I want you to come over here and kiss me, and then go back and sit down in that chair again."

He went a little pale at that. The swing of his foot was arrested suddently. But, for a moment, he made no move—just looked wonderingly into her great, grave eyes.

"Something's going to happen," she went on, "and before it's over, I'm afraid it's going to hurt you terribly—"

Change Safely Passed by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wagoner, Okla.—"I never get tired of praising Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have been using it for years, and it has cured me of many ailments. I have been suffering from indigestion, headache, and general weakness, and it has all been cured by taking this compound. I feel like a new woman now."

Such warning symptoms as those of indigestion, headache, general weakness, dizziness, and all diseases of the skin, should be taken as a warning. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured many women safely through the crisis.

IT NEVER FAILS TO END MISERY OF PILES

"Hundreds of persons in this vicinity," says Peterson, "know of the mighty healing power of PETERSON'S OINTMENT in eczema, salt rheum, old sores, itching skin, ulcers, pimples and all diseases of the skin. They know it cures these ailments—that it is guaranteed to cure them."

Now I want to say to every sufferer from piles, either blind, bleeding or itching, that I will guarantee that a 25 cent box of PETERSON'S OINTMENT will rid you of piles or your druggist will return your money.

"For years I suffered terribly with itching and bleeding piles. I tried everything and despaired of ever getting rid of them. It gives me great pleasure to state that Peterson's Ointment entirely cured me, and I sincerely recommend it to all sufferers."—Yours truly, David A. Seymour, Supt. of Parks, Buffalo, N. Y.

IF YOU CAN'T SWIM YOU CAN KEEP IT A SECRET.

and me. And I want the kiss for us to remember. So that we'll always know, whatever happens afterward, that we loved each other." She held out her arms to him. "Won't you come?"

He came—a man bewildered, bent down over her, and found her lips; but almost absent, out of a daze.

"No, not like that," she murmured. "In the old way."

There was a long embrace. "I don't believe I'd have the courage to do it," she said. "If it were just me. But there's someone else—I've made someone a promise. I can't tell you about that. Now please go back and sit over there where you were, where we can talk quietly. Oh, Roddy, I love you so!—No, please go back, old man! And—light your pipe. Oh, don't tremble like that! It isn't a tragedy. It's—for us, it's the greatest hope in the world."

He went back to his chair. He even lit his pipe as she asked him to, and waited as steadily as he could for her to begin.

"Do you remember . . ." she began, and it was remarkable how quiet and steady her voice was. There was even the trace of a smile about her wonderful mouth. "Do you remember that afternoon of ours, the very first of them, when you brought home my notebook and found me asleep on the couch in our old back parlor? Do you remember how you told me that one's desires were the only motive power he had? Well, it was a funny thing—I got to wondering afterward what my desires were, and it seemed I hadn't any. Everything had, somehow, come to me before I knew I wanted it. Everything in the world, even your love for me, came like that."

"But I've got a passion now, Roddy. I've had it for a long while. It's a desire I can't satisfy. The thing I want—and there's nothing in the world I wouldn't give to get it—is, well, your friendship, Roddy; that's a way of saying it."

Roddy started and stared at her. The thing struck him, it seemed, as a sort of grotesquely irritating anti-climax.

"Gracious heaven!" he said. "My friendship! Why, I'm in love with you! That's certainly a bigger thing."

"I don't know whether it's a bigger thing or not," she said. "But it doesn't include the other."

He was tramping up and down the room by now. "You've got my friendship!" he cried out. "It's grotesque perversion of the facts to say you haven't!"

She smiled at him as she shook her head. "I've spent too many months trying to get it and seeing myself fail—oh, so ridiculously!—not to know what I'm talking about, Roddy."

And then, still smiling rather sadly, she told him what some of her experiments had been—some of her attempts to break into the life he kept locked away from her. "I was angry at first when I found you keeping me out," she said; "angry and hurt. I used to cry about it. And then I saw it wasn't your fault. That's how I discovered friendship had to be earned."

But her power to maintain that attitude of grave detachment was about spent. The passion mounted in her voice and in her eyes as she went on. "You thought my mind had got full of wild ideas—the wild idea I was pulling you down from something free and fine that you had been, to something that you despised yourself for being and had to try to deny you were. You were wrong about that, Roddy."

"I did have an obsession, but it wasn't the thing you thought. It was an obsession that kept me quiet, and contented and happy, and willing to wait in spite of everything. The obsession was that none of those things mattered because a big miracle was coming that was going to change it all. I was going to have a job at last—a job that was just as real as yours—the job of being a mother."

Her voice broke in a fierce, sharp little laugh over the word, but she got it back in control again.

"I was going to have a baby to keep alive with my own care. There was going to be responsibility and hard work, things that demanded courage and endurance and sacrifice. I could earn my friendship with that, I said. That was the real obsession, Roddy, and it never really died until tonight. Well, I suppose I can't complain. It's over, that's the main thing."

"And now, here I am perfectly normal and well again—as good as ever. I could wear pretty clothes again and start going out just as I did a year ago. People would admire me; and you'd be pleased, and you'd love me as much as ever, and it would all be like the paradise it was last year, except for one thing. The one thing is that if I do that, I'll know this time what I really am."

With a dangerous light of anger in his eyes, he said quietly: "It's perfectly outrageous that you should talk like that, and I'll ask you never to do it again."

After ten seconds of silence, she went on: "Why, Roddy, I've heard you describe me a hundred times. Not the you that's my lover. The other you—talking all over the universe to Barry Lake. You've described the woman who's never been trained nor taught nor disciplined; who's been brought up soft, with making her marriageable; who's never found her job in marriage, who doesn't cook, nor sew, nor spin, nor even take care of her own children; the woman who uses her charm to save her from having to do hard, ugly things, and keep her in luxury. Do you remember what you've called her, Roddy?"

"I didn't understand any of that when you married me, Roddy; it was just like a dream to me—like a fairy story come true. But I understand now. How can you be sure, knowing that my position in the world, my friends, oh, the very clothes on my back, and the roof over my head, are dependent on your love—how are you going to be sure that my love for you is honest and disinterested? What's to keep you from wondering—asking questions? Love's got to be free, Roddy. The only way to make it free is to have friendship growing along side it. So when I can be your partner and your friend, I'll be your wife too. But not—Roddy, till I can find a way. I'll have to do it for myself. I'll have to go off."

She broke down over a word she couldn't at first say, buried her face in her arms, and let a deep, racking sob or two have their way with her. But presently she sat erect again, and with a supreme effort of will, forced her voice to utter the word: "I've got to go off alone—away from you, and stay until I find it. If I ever do, and you want me, I'll come back."

The struggle between them lasted a week—a ghastly week, during which, so far as the surface of things showed, their life flowed along in its accustomed channels. But at all sorts of times, and in all sorts of places, when they were alone together, the great battle was renewed.

The hardest thing about it all for Rose—the thing that came nearest to breaking down her courage—was to see how slowly Rodney came to realize it at all. He was like a trapped animal pacing the four sides of his cage, confident that in a moment or two he would find the way out, and then, incredulously, dazedly, coming to the same conclusion that there was no way out. She really meant to go away and leave him—leave the babies; go somewhere where his care and protection could not reach her! She was actually planning the details of doing it! By the end of one of their long talks, it would seem to her that he had grasped this monstrous intention and accepted it. But before the beginning of the next one, he seemed to manage, somehow, to dismiss the thing as a nightmare.

Somewhat or other, during the calmer moments toward the end, practical details managed to get talked about—settled after a fashion, without the admission really being made on his part that the thing was going to happen at all.

"I'd do everything I could, of course, to make it easier," she said. "We could have a story for people that I'd gone to California to make mother a long visit. We could bring Harriet home from Washington to keep house while I was gone. I'd take my trunks, you see, and really go. People would suspect, of course, after a while, but they'd always pretend to believe anything that's comfortable."

"Where would you go, really?" he demanded. "Have you any plan at all?"

"I have a sort of plan," she said. "I think I know of a way of earning a living."

But she didn't offer to go on and tell him what it was, and, after a little silence, he commented bitterly upon this omission.

"You won't even give me the poor satisfaction of knowing what you're doing," he said.

"I'd love to," she said, "to be able to write to you, hear from you every day. But I don't believe you want to know. I think it would be too hard for you. Because you'd have to promise not to try to get me back—not to come and rescue me if I got into trouble and things went badly and I didn't know where to turn. Could you promise that, Roddy?"

He gave a groan and buried his face in his hands. Then: "No," he said furiously. "Of course I couldn't. See you suffering and stand by with my hands in my pockets and watch!" He sprang up and seized her by the arms in a grip that actually left bruises, and fairly shook her in the agony of his entreaty. "Tell me it's a nightmare, Rose," he said. "Tell me it isn't true. Wake me up out of it!"

Dinner Stories

The landlady bustled up to her new lodger as he came down to breakfast the first morning.

"Good morning, sir," she wheezed. "Good morning," said the lodger. "I hope you've had a good night's rest," said the landlady.

"No," said the mild-mannered little man. "Your cat kept me awake."

"Oh," said the landlady, tossing her head, "I suppose you're going to kill it. I'll have the poor thing killed."

"No, not exactly," said the gentle lodger. "But would you very much mind having it tuned?"

"Don't you care for any postcards today?" asked the postal clerk as he handed the man the stamp he had requested.

"No, not today," said the man.

"Or some stamped envelopes? We have some new ones."

"No, thank you."

"Would you like a money order?"

"No, perhaps you would like to open a postal savings account?"

But the man had fled.

"That was that, now, and why did you ask him all those questions?" asked a fellow clerk.

"That," said the other clerk, "is my barber. For years when he has shaved me he has bothered me with recommendations of massages, shampoos, haircuts and hair tonics. I am even with him now."

"I've seen a man planting potatoes," said Farmer Cornsheel "when he ought to be playing golf."

"You don't approve of gardening?"

"Yes, I do. But, if he'd go ahead and plant them, he wouldn't be spoiling good potatoes that somebody could use."

CLINTON NEWS

Clinton, July 3.—Arnold Larson, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Larson, met with a very serious accident this morning while at the J. H. Greene stock farm. He and a companion, Carl Christenson, discovered on Monday a 22 rifle hanging on a nail in the barn which belonged to Fred Hood an employee on the farm. Finding some shots they took the rifle in the field back of the barn, fired it off several times when Harry Christman, another employee there heard the shots and going to the boys asked if Jay Greene knew they had the rifle. Upon the answer that he did not, he told them to put it back where they found it. But Jay had heard the shots and going to the boys told them to hang it up. Young Larson having the rifle hung it up, but caught the trigger on the nail causing it to discharge and the shot entered his left side about an inch above the heart. He was taken home immediately and Mrs. Thomas and Parker attended him. How serious it is cannot yet be told. It is thought that an X-ray would have to be taken to locate the shot. It is hoped that because of it going in the slant that it does not penetrate deep enough to be fatal.

The young people of the Baptist church are having a "wiener roast" at Carver's Rock this evening.
